New Orleans offers an array of transportation options, including buses, the iconic streetcars, and ferries.

If you plan to use the streetcars and buses to get around during your stay, consider purchasing a JazzyPass, which allows unlimited rides on all streetcar and bus lines. $3 for one day, $9 for 3 days, and $15 for 5 days. Single day passes can be purchased when boarding. Multiday passes can be purchased at vending machines at the streetcar stops at Canal and Bourbon Streets or Canal and North Peters Streets. You can also purchase a mobile/electronic version of the pass if you have the free GoMobile app on your smartphone http://www.norta.com/Getting-Around/GoMobile-App.

Streetcars:
No trip to New Orleans is complete without a ride on a streetcar. One-way fares are $1.25. You’ll need exact change, or a JazzyPass.

- St. Charles Line
  The oldest continuing operating streetcar in the world, this line starts from Carondelet at Canal Street (Directly across from Bourbon/Canal) in the Central Business District, and travels uptown on St. Charles Avenue, passing antebellum mansions, Tulane and Loyola Universities, and Audubon Park. 24 hours/day.

- Canal Street Line
  Newer, bright red cars run on this line and service 2 destinations. “Cemeteries” goes to several of the historic cemeteries and runs 5am-3am. “City Park” goes through Mid-City and will take you to City Park and the New Orleans Museum of Art. The City Park route runs 7am-1:15am.

- Riverfront Line
  This line runs the length of the French Quarter, into the Central Business District from Esplanade to Julia Street. The Poydras Street stop serves the Hilton Riverside.

RTA Buses
Bus routes cover the city, and one-way fares are $1.25, with an extra $0.25 for a transfer. You’ll need exact change, or a JazzyPass. Plan your route using the RTA Trip Planner http://www.norta.com/Maps-Schedules/Overview

Canal Street/Algiers Ferry
Transportation and an attraction all-in-one. Even if you don’t need to go to the West Bank, it’s worth the roundtrip to see the city and French Quarter from the River, especially at night. On the city side, it leaves the ferry dock at the foot of Canal Street every 30 minutes. Monday-Friday 6:15am-9:45pm, Saturday 11am-8pm, Sunday 11am-6pm. Fare: $2 each way.
