Summary
Our incoming co-moderators are Jamie Vander Broek, Learning Librarian; Exhibits and Programming Librarian at the University of Michigan and Chizu Morihara, Art Librarian at the University of California, Santa Barbara. Jamie and Chizu are replacing Amy Ballmer and Krista Ivy and plan to stay on through 2014.

Over the past year, 79 ARLIS/NA members have indicated an interest in the Teaching SIG through their membership renewal forms.

Activities and Strategic Plan
During the 2013 Pasadena annual conference meeting, we discussed items such as: credit courses, liaison activities, and art studio instruction. Many members reported challenges related to teaching courses outside their focus as art information professionals.

This spring, we created a list-serv so that we can strengthen the group’s communication. This initiative is in alignment with Goal V, Section A, Action Plan Item 1 from the ARLIS/NA 2011-2015 Strategic Plan:

Goal V: Strengthen the Society’s Communication and Operational Infrastructure
A. Improve communication across the organization, enhancing relations among and between the Executive Board, committees, divisions and sections, special interest groups, chapters and liaisons.
1. Review current communication practices to establish guidelines for improvements and explore new technologies to support organizational dialogue.

Future Plans
The Teaching SIG will meet during the ARLIS/NA Annual Conference in Washington, D.C. from 11am-12pm on Friday, May 2nd. We will discuss any projects and goals for the coming year along with our annual brainstorming concerning teaching issues.
