Report Text

Kathleen Salomon was appointed liaison to the College Art Association in late April, 2017. Sarah Falls, who had been in this role for the previous two years, generously remained in contact during the transition period.

We are currently awaiting the major event of the year, which will be ARLIS/NA’s panel, “Engaging the Iterative: Pedagogical Experiments across Art and Design Disciplines”, which will take place at the Los Angeles Convention Center on February 22, from 4:00-5:30 pm.

One of my goals over the past months has been to communicate more, so far I have done so with the ARLIS/NA list by sending out CAA bulletins; with the ARLIS/NA local chapter in Southern California in the hopes of publicizing the CAA/LA conference and session; and with the CAA Affiliates newsletter, where news of our session was published as well.

Goals for the coming year include bringing some of the natural intersections between art information professionals and our other CAA colleagues to the fore a bit more, with a well-conceived panel for 2019 in New York, but also through other forms of communication and engagement throughout the year as possible. Stay tuned!
