AASL Building New Models: Library as Learning Lab
Library Working Group

Background

In the Fall of 2014, the Library Task Force conducted a literature review, SWOT analysis, empathy studies and charrette. The library is currently making strategic innovations in order to become a model 21st century library based on the outcome of last fall's work.

Committee Charge from Deans Steele and Cronrath, April 28, 2015

Instruction: Faculty and students need access to expert help as they approach their teaching, learning, and research. Work with the Librarian to outline the needs and program that will educate both faculty and students in using the wealth of information available on campus and beyond. A best practice of the field could be helpful in this work.

Collections Review: Work with the Librarian to define what is core for the various disciplines. What resources are missing? Where should collections and parts of collections be housed now and projecting into the future?
